Abstract

Nowadays, there are various alternatives to educate students the place and time independently. Education in many countries around the world is not restricted to 2 semesters and the number of semesters is increased. In recent years, summer schools in most of the higher education institutions in Turkey have become widespread and have emerged as an alternative for students to choose from outside normal periods. Since 2016, our summer school application has been continuing at our university. In this study, the students who are taking Kocaeli University Distance Learning Method of Chess and Traffic Security University Elective Courses were asked 20 questionnaires in the scale of 3 likert. According to the evaluation results of the study results, it was observed that 95% of the students were required to attend summer school and their academic achievement was affected and 85% of the students had a tendency to pursue distance education instead of normal education.
