Abstract

The law on Unification of Education underlies Attila İlhan’s ideas with regard to education and besides, it draws attention that his ideas about this subject centre upon education in foreign language, the position of Religious Vocational Schools and Village Enstitutes.

The Law on Unification of Education was designed with the aim of training modern highbrows of national, democratic and secular republic by providing a unity of education. However, in Attila İlhan’s opinion, The Law on Unification of Education was broken due to the establishment of Religious Vocational Schools after the 1950s and the attempts of public high schools teaching in foreign language.
